– SHORT-TERM RESEARCH EXPERIENCE FOR UNDERREPRESENTED PERSONS –

STEP-UP is a NIH/NIDDK funded program that provides hands-on biomedical and behavioral research opportunities to eager high school juniors and seniors from underrepresented and/or disadvantaged backgrounds. Pacific STEP-UP is a component of the program designed specifically to address some of the unique challenges faced by students living in the Pacific Basin who are curious about and interested in careers involving science and research.

STEP-UP is intended to help students from diverse backgrounds learn about and prepare for professional research careers. The personal statement is your opportunity to explain why you want to participate in STEP-UP. Your personal statement of 5000 characters or less should describe:

- How a research experience through STEP-UP will positively influence your career development
- Your short and/or long-term academic and career goals
- The various events or experiences that have helped shape your desire to learn more about biomedical, clinical, social or behavioral research
- If you are a returning STEP-UP student, your personal statement must indicate what new opportunities a second summer in STEP-UP would give you. If you are a SENIOR in high school or college, your personal statement must indicate what your plans are after graduation.
- If the character limit is exceeded, the system will prompt you to reduce your text. It is highly recommended that you have someone proofread your personal statement before it is submitted

How to Apply

- Must add TWO references
- Acceptable references:
 - Teachers
 - Professors
 - Relevant employer
 - Past mentor (Past STEP-UP participants must have at least one letter from their most recent STEP-UP Research Mentor)
- Upon submission of information, reference should receive an email for letter of recommendation upload
 - CONFIRM with reference that they have received this email
 - CONFIRM application deadline with reference
 - Hard copies will not be accepted
- You CANNOT edit a reference once submitted
 - Must delete and re-add to make changes

Academic Personal Statement Experience Awards Extracurricular References Review Application

Two letters of recommendation from different individuals are required to complete the STEP-UP application. Professional references (e.g. teachers, professors, employers, etc.) that can comment specifically on your work ethic, education training, and prior research experience, if applicable, are preferred. You should NOT ask a neighbor, church minister, employer (unless related to a research experience), or anyone else who knows you outside of an academic or research context. If you have previously participated in STEP-UP, one of your letters of recommendation must come from your most recent research mentor.

How to secure a reference:

- Early in the application process, visit your references during office hours, or schedule an appointment to discuss your STEP-UP plans and/or your graduate school goals.
- Give your references a short resume of your experiences and areas of interest. Remind them about a project or paper you completed in their class. What grade did you make? Was there something about that project that stands out?
- Monitor your application status to ensure that the recommendations are submitted on time.
